A warm year, marked by a winter of little rainfall, caused an early flowering and veraison. Hot weather dominated the months of June and July. The range between maximum and minimum temperatures in August contributed to a balanced ripening of the grapes. A warm and tranquil harvest began September 12, with reduced yields that favoured the integration of the tannins.

Terreus 2015 presents an impressive structure and concentration. Its impeccable maturity stands out, accompanied by a sumptuousness of lively tannins and generous red fruit.
